What did they do to the poor boy? Underline it.

One night, I was sleeping over at my friend's house. Her parents were not home, and her older brother who is really mean was supposed to be watching us. Well, to get back at him, I came up with a brilliant plan. When he was in their living room, we snuck into his room. We started putting baby powder on top of his ceiling fan. Next we put deodorant all over his TV screen. Then we sprayed cologne everywhere (which I later found out his dead grandma had given him. I felt bad about that). Then, we put salt in his milk and stole his cds and video games. Well, when he walked in and turned on the light, the fan came on. Powder went every where. He was so mad about the powder, cologne, salt, and deodorant; he didn't even notice we took his cd and games. (Later, we put them back without him knowing.) I don't think I have to tell you how much trouble we were in after he called his parents and my mom. Yeah, I don't think were going to do something like that to him again.
